Labor Day and Christianity?

Labor Day receives uneven treatment in most churches. Labor Day does not appear on the Christian calendar. There are no Labor Day pageants for children. One memorable exception was the time my mother convinced several members of the congregation to come to worship in their work clothes on Labor Day Sunday. There were plenty of farmers with wide-brim hats and overalls, nurses, teachers, a veterinarian, dentists and Clyde Garber, a certified mechanic in his Skelly service station outfit. We honored labor that day.

Today, the topic of labor and faith is studied intently at Vanderbilt Divinity School in the Wendland-Cook Program in Religion and Justice. It's a crucial subject for our time. Expand your understanding of the issues with this archive of recorded programs and reflections on the Revised Common Lectionary.

Have you ever sensed there ought to be more to being a member of the church than attending worship, making a pledge, and sitting on a committee? Or felt there was something you needed to be doing but didn't know how?

Wherever we are along the journey of faith, most of us long for something more; or have the realization that church should be not just where we go, but who we are. How do I follow Jesus in a real and tangible way? What spiritual practices will help me experience a more vibrant relationship with God?

A Disciple's Path has the potential to revolutionize the way we view our participation in the church, transforming us from wanderers into pilgrims. The program combines a Wesleyan understanding of our growth in God's love and grace with time-tested spiritual disciplines expressed in our membership vows, helping newer and seasoned members alike take the next step in becoming dynamic, engaged followers of Jesus Christ.

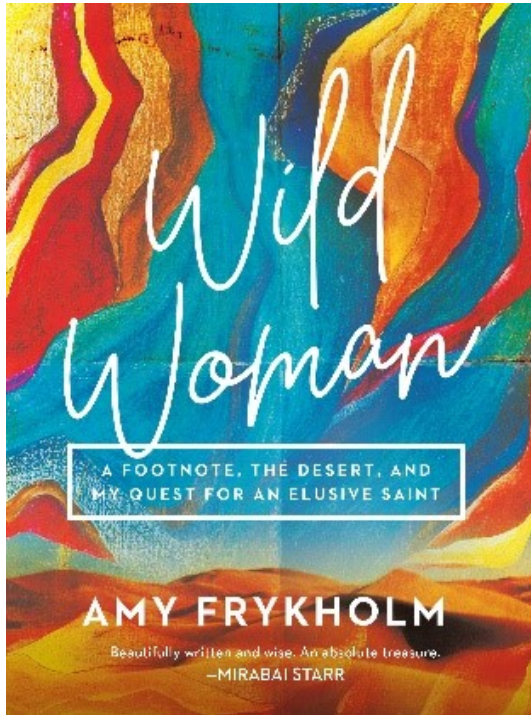

The six-week study will be offered Wednesdays September 22 – November 3 (no class October 13) from noon to 1 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. Materials will be provided free of charge. Sign up Sunday mornings at the Adult Faith Formation table or davidreid24@gmail.com or 970-581-2707.

Amy Frykholm, award-winning writer, scholar and journalist, will speak on her latest book Wild Woman: A Footnote, The Desert, and My Quest for An Elusive Saint at 6 p.m. September 26 at First United Methodist Church in a presentation sponsored by the Northern Colorado Faith Library.

Wild Woman is the record of Frykholm's quest to follow the footsteps of fifth-century desert hermit St. Mary of Egypt. This quest led Frykholm throughout Egypt, Israel, Palestine, and Jordan where she searched for the meaning of Mary's life and learned to embrace the wild and sacred within. With a scholar's eye and a mystic's heart, Frykholm offers a look at an elusive and dynamic figure from history while offering insights into our own inner--and potentially rewilded--lives. Books will be available for sale from Old Firehouse.

The pandemic experience is the focus of two related events in September from World Wisdoms Project. “Listening . . . to the Voices of Grief, Gratitude, and Hope through Music and Reflection” will be 6:30-8:30 p.m. September 9 at Aztlan Center, 112 E. Willow Street, Fort Collins. Featured music is African American spirituals. Registration is here.

Part 2 of this program is a public art-making event 3-7 p.m. September 24 at Old Town Square. Participants may create a personal flag that will be flown at the square. Musicians and poets will provide a reflective atmosphere and the Fort Collins Interfaith Council will close with lighting of the Hope candle at sunset. No registration is required for Part 2.
